The Caribbean Sea A Tourist Destination for Over 500 Years

The first tourist in the Caribbean wrote a letter about his trip. In it he said, "I saw so many islands that I could hardly decide which to visit first."

The tourist was Christopher Columbus. The letter was to Queen Isabella of Spain.

The year was 1492.

Tourists are still trying to decide, over 500 years later. The Caribbean Sea is surrounded by over 7,000 islands, varying in size from Cuba's massive 42,800 square miles, to little more than a piece of coral piercing the surface of the water in the Lesser Antilles.

Covering over one million square miles, the Caribbean Sea is bordered on the north by the Greater Antilles (Cuba, Haiti/Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, Jamaica and the Cayman Islands), on the east by the Lesser Antilles (the Virgin, Leeward, Windward and Grenadine Islands), on the south by the Dutch Leeward Islands (the ABCs of Aruba, Bonaire and Curaçao), Venezuela and Colombia, and on the west by the Yucatán Peninsula (Mexico and Belize) and Central America.

This sea is almost completely land-locked, either by the coasts of the major continents to its north, west, and south, or by strings of islands, no two of which are more than 90 miles apart, along the perimeter. The widest inlet to the Caribbean is the Yucatán Channel south of the Gulf of Mexico, measuring a scant 130 miles between the Yucatán Peninsula and the western tip of Cuba.

In only one other sea – the Mediterranean – do the waters lap the beaches of so many different and diverse lands and islands, ruled by so many governments. But whatever the name, history or political structure, all the Caribbean Islands share a year-round moderate tropical climate, palm trees swaying in soothing tradewinds and sea breezes, plus almost constant sunshine warming miles of picture postcard-perfect white sand beaches.

Columbus and the Caribs

Historians disagree on the exact site of Columbus' first landing. Various theorists place him on San Salvador (then called Guanahani) or the Samana Cay in the southern Bahamas (technically not even in the Caribbean, and certainly not "America" as we have come to know it), on Antigua, St. Croix or Barbados. Regardless of the specific island, Columbus encountered unsuspecting but friendly natives of the Arawak tribe, originally from Venezuela, and the ferocious, cannibalistic Carib Indians who were more predominant throughout the islands.

Columbus thought he had reached Asia; he called his island discoveries The West Indies. He assigned several other names to the islands of the New World: The Antilles (based on a legendary island called Antilia, supposedly a refuge for Christians fleeing Spain when the Moors invaded), the Virgin Islands (originally Las Virgenes, for the 4th century Saint Ursula and 11,000 virgins said to have been killed by the Huns), Tortola ("turtle dove," after the majority of inhabitants) and Virgin Gorda (literally "fat virgin," presumably named for the shape of the island, and not for a zaftig native maiden he may have encountered).

The all-encompassing Caribbean was named for the Carib Indians, then the most powerful and prominent inhabitants. Caribe is Spanish for "cannibal;" the English Carib refers to those ferocious, cannibalistic strong men who had all but eliminated the Arawaks and controlled the islands that Columbus "discovered."

Riches and Beaches

Columbus' four voyages to the Caribbean area were soon followed by the Spanish conquistadors, hungry for gold and other treasures of the Antilles. All the islands belonged to Spain until the mid-17th century when assorted other Western European nations were lured by the riches, and presumably by the tropical climes. The British, French, Danes, Swedes and Dutch fought off Spain – and each other – in the ensuing 300-year colonization frenzy.

Each of the new landowners established gold, silver and copper mines, plus sugar and cotton plantations. The labor force for these ventures at first included the native Arawaks and Caribs, but after the Spanish enslaved, brutalized and all but wiped out the locals, Africans were imported.

Even before the end of slavery in the United States, the Africans revolted, and by 1840 took their dominant place among the free Caribbean people. With the U.S. military intervention during the Spanish-American War, along with some direct land purchases – the U.S. bought its 50 Virgin Islands, including St. Thomas, St. Croix and St. John, for $25 million in 1917 – America joined the six other nations already ensconced in the Caribbean.

Nowhere on the planet is there a more varied and unique mixture of cultures, languages, races, colors, creeds, architecture, arts, entertainment, flora, fauna, fish and food than throughout the Caribbean. The weather is the common denominator, yet it is the sea itself with its crystal-clear waters that invites year-round scuba divers, snorkelers and swimmers to breathtaking beaches on each of the 50 most populated and popular islands. Other water sports abound: deep-sea fishing, sailing, wind-surfing and water-skiing are all considered some of the best in the world. In waters that average 80°, it's no wonder.

And Just How IS it Pronounced?

There are two acceptable pronunciations: care-ih-BEE-uhn, or kuh-RIB-ee-yun. Most Americans choose the latter and most Europeans the former. But considering the source – the native Indians of a tribe called Carib (pronounced CARE-ib, not kuh-RIB) – the former seems more accurate, although either (ee-ther or eye-ther?) is correct.

Crystal Visions Enrichment Program

Crystal Cruises' unique enrichment programs always include at least two expert speakers to enhance our guests' enjoyment and education on board. A prominent historian, anthropologist or similar expert on the itinerary area is always on hand to share expertise and fascinating information about the ports or global areas visited on the cruise. In addition, another renowned expert in a specific field of interest offers talks to increase guests' awareness of the wonderful world around them.

Our award-winning enrichment program also always includes instruction in Bridge, dancing and computers, and on selected sailings, experts are also invited to share their knowledge in a vast area of expertise. Daily Reflections gives complete schedules and biographical information about our excellent Crystal Visions enrichment speakers and instructors.

PERSONALITY PROFILES

Bridge Instructor Sally Rewbotham

Sally was raised in a small town in south western Ontario and later moved to the big city. She has a degree in English and Mathematics which allowed her to teach a variety of subjects to an amazing array of young people. Sally likes to say she was "educated in Universities but trained by teenagers."

She began playing bridge as a fourteen year old and the love affair continues still. There is no better game that makes you think, analyze, problem solve, communicate and yet socialize and make new and lasting friends. A recent comment made by a young player at a tournament in Toronto was, "This is better than anything on my cell phone." High praise indeed!

Sally's approach includes fun and fellowship, laughter and challenge. Join fellow travelers as you learn the game or improve the one you already play.

Golf Instructor Joe Herbert

Joe Herbert has maintained membership in the PGA for over 40 years, as well as being a Quarter Century Club and Life member.

His experience includes being a Head Golf Professional/Golf Director at exclusive country clubs in Colorado. In addition, during the spring and summer months, he is the Director of Golf Instructions at Arrowhead Golf Club (Golf Digest Top 100 golf courses) in Littleton, CO. Joe has been honored with the 1997 nomination for PGA Teaching Professional and Junior Golf Leader and also has been nominated for the 2016 Teaching Professional of the year. He has been awarded both the 2009 and 2010 President's Council Award for Outstanding Golf Instruction of Developing Golf Instruction Programs. He has been featured in 2010 Style Magazine during the U.S. Open, and Boomer Golf News for his outstanding teaching abilities. Joe has signed with Southwest Airlines and Swift Air for his golf instructions and DVDs while in the air on WiFi. Recently, due to the large number of requests from his students and golf schools around the world, Joe has released a DVD set, "Fundamentals of Golf." They are also available as Apps for all golfers to download. Joe considers teaching golf to others to be one of the highlights of his life.

Odyssey Art at Sea Instructor Judy Derickson

Judy is a contemporary artist and art educator specializing in teaching watercolor painting. She loves to share her skill and enthusiasm for Art with her students to showcase everyone's creative spirit. Her ability to work in different media and subject matters show her versatility and joy in creating new worlds for us to see.

Judy received her B.A. in Fine Arts and a M.A. in Art Education at the University of Arizona where she has developed many innovative Art and Art History programs while teaching High School for 34 years. She has a passion for traveling and documenting the world by recording scenes in sketchbooks wherever she goes. Her ideas for her paintings come from traveling with her students to many parts of the world, specializing in finding the essence of color and shape. She believes that everyone can create Art with a teaching environment that encourages having fun and seeing what will happen.

Judy has shown her artwork in many exhibitions and is in many private collections throughout the west. In 2014, she was a first prize winner for her prints that are in the Special Collections at the Library of The University of Arizona. Now retired from teaching High School Art, she has time to redirect her energy and passion into her own art work.

Judy would encourage everyone to attend her classes and relax with her as we use our imaginations to focus on creating memories of our wonderful cruise. She trained with Linda Perlmutter from Odyssey Art in Sleepy Hollow, New York and is able to work with beginners to experts.

Introducing Odyssey Art at Sea

Ranging from nature to destination watercolors, to sea bags, to silk paintings and scarves, guests enjoy using their often untapped artistic creativity to express themselves in many types of media to create art.

Utilizing 25 years of development and almost two hundred teachers who are specifically trained for the luxury cruise market, Odyssey Art at Sea classes shun busywork while simultaneously avoiding overly technical work that diverts from the fun of designing art. Dormant to well developed creative tendencies are encouraged to flourish in a light atmosphere of camaraderie as guests utilize the finest traditional and cutting edge supplies. Participants learn to see things differently and often pursue their new found love after the cruise ends.

Guests are invited to express their creativity. Meet your instructor and learn about the art classes during the Creative Learning Institute open house.

USC Digital Filmmaking Instructor, Tim Grey

Tim Grey is a photographer who has written more than a dozen books on photography, has published dozens of video training courses, and has had hundreds of articles published in magazines such as Digital Photo Pro and Outdoor Photographer, among others. He also publishes the Ask Tim Grey eNewsletter, the monthly Pixology digital magazine, and a wide variety of video training courses through his Grey-Learning website.

Tim teaches through workshops, seminars, and appearances at major events around the world.

PERSONALITY PROFILE

Guitarist, Solo Artist & Studio Musician Rene L. Toledo

Rene L. Toledo was born in Havana, Cuba. He began his guitar studies at the age of ten. By the age of twelve, he entered the Alejandro Garcia Caturla Conservatory, and at the age of fifteen he entered the Provincial Amadeo Roldan Conservatory where he studied Classical Guitar with Professor Marta Cuervós, Solfeo, Harmony, Counterpoint, Morphology, Music History, Music Theory, Pedagogy and Orchestration. In 1979 he graduated and obtained his Masters in Classical Guitar and Guitar Teacher. Parallel to his studies of music he also graduated with a Bachelor's of Science and Letters. He taught himself jazz guitar, and at the age of sixteen was integrated into the group of Felipe Dulzaides the only Jazz Sextet "authorized" in Cuba at that time. At the age of eighteen he founded the group Afro Cuba with José Carlos Acosta, Nicholas Reynoso and Tony Valdes – an innovative band whose music blended with the Afro-Cuban jazz roots. In 1977 he was awarded the UNEAC Award, the prize for best band and record and LP.

In 1980 he immigrated to the United States where his musical career accelerated, becoming a Studio Musician and a Music Producer with international recognition. He was appointed professor of Jazz Guitar at Florida International University from 1994 to 1997. He has participated in prominent Jazz Festivals around the world and won several Grammy Awards for his work with artists such Arturo Sandoval, Gloria Estefan, and Shakira.

He has three solo albums; two on a GRP Label call "The Dreamer" and "Guitar Fire" and one on a Sony Latin Jazz Label called "Mestizo." He has participated in hundreds of recording sessions with internationally renowned artists such as Miley Cyrus, Frank Ocean, Conor Maynard, Wayne Hawthorne, Mike Posner, Alyssa Bernal, Adam Lambert, Carlos Santana, and Celine Dion. As a jazz musician has recorded and worked with artists like Jane Monheit, Arturo Sandoval, Paquito de Rivera, Dave Grusin, Chick Corea, Fahir Atakoglu, Bob Minzer, Horacio "El Negro" Hernandez, John Pattitucci, Gary Campbell, United Nation Orchestra, and many others.

Rene Toledo performs in the Crystal Cove on selected evenings.

Today's Cocktail Suggestion

Negroni Sbagliato

A version that is perhaps not quite as well known but has already won over the fans of the classic Negroni.

Campari, Sweet Vermouth, Prosecco
